Rowden vows not to quit post

Officials blast her performance

By Michelle Duell
Staff writer

Pontoon Beach Village Clerk Mary Rowden says she is upset about "politics" at the Pontoon Beach Village Hall.

But despite criticism of her performance by some village officials, Rowden said she will not resign.

Village board members have leveled a variety of criticisms at her, saying she is incompetent and has cost the village thousands of dollars in uncollected fines and fees.

Trustee Bob Abel said that Rowden didn't take care of business.

"I don't think she was doing her job," he said. "I'm just sick of the whole deal."

As an example, Abel said, "A (resident) wasn't getting paid his back taxes for two years. Mary turned it (the form) over to (then trustee) Mike Macke, and the next day, it was ready. All it took was three phone calls."

"Now why should someone have to wait for two years to get paid their back taxes?" he asked.

Village officials sought criminal prosecution

"I never used my desk. I have no idea how they got there. I think it's all just a big-time political deal."

charges against Rowden in May after village employees discovered three checks that were supposed to be deposited into village funds uncashed in Rowden's desk at City Hall. The checks, totaling $369, were dated Nov. 30, 1995.

"I don't know anything about those checks," Rowden said. "I never used my desk. I have no idea how they got there. I think it's all just a big-time political deal."

Elected village clerk in April 1995, the position's duties included keeping track of business license fees, collecting them and taking care of other fees.

Hepatitis outbreak over

Final tally of cases reached 45, county officials say

Madison County health officials said the recent Bethalto outbreak of hepatitis A has officially ended.

The final tally of cases that are probably related to the outbreak reached 45 in mid-May, said Debra Tscheschlok, personal health services manager for the county Health Department.

Since that time, there have been no more cases reported.

"Because of the incubation period, we had to wait a while to say conclusively that it was over," Tscheschlok said.

The cases started showing up in early March among members of the Bethalto Boys and Girls Club wrestling team. The source of the outbreak has not been determined, although health officials pored over detailed eating diaries compiled by the victims.

Family members and a few classmates of team members were also infected by the disease, which is commonly spread by fecal-oral

Woman's body found

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

A Collinsville woman who had been missing since May 31 was found shot to death in East St. Louis.

St. Clair County Coroner Rick Stone identified the body last week as that of Connie Hawkins, 39, of the 500 block of North Morrison. Stone said Hawkins' badly decomposed but fully clothed body was found June 9 in the 1800 block of North 17th Street in East St. Louis.

McVeigh verdict brings comfort

Victim's son: 'Justice has been served'

By Joe Leicht
Staff writer

Many Americans, including some who normally oppose capital punishment, nodded as one last Friday when a Denver jury decreed that Timothy McVeigh must pay the ultimate price for his role in the Oklahoma City bombing.

Among those were Waterloo police officer Jay Sawyer and his wife Shari. Sawyer's mother Dolores Stratton was among the 168 men, women and children killed April 19, 1995 when McVeigh and an alleged accomplice used a truck bomb to destroy the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building.

Sawyer thinks others will eventually be brought to justice for the terrorist attack,

Jay and Shari Sawyer are shown here embracing after a memorial ceremony to commemorate the bombing's anniversary last year.

but the McVeigh verdict and his family more peace of mind than they've had in two years.

"I feel justice, in his case, has definitely been served. But I don't believe for a minute they have all the people responsible," said Sawyer Sunday.

"Most of the witnesses who said they saw the (bomb-rigged) Ryder truck pull up said two people exited. One was McVeigh and one other subject, and it was not Terry Nichols," Sawyer said.

Terry Nichols is the other suspect authorities have in custody. He is being tried separately from McVeigh.

"All that's gone on up to now is just the beginning of the end. We'll be going down to Oklahoma City in a month and a half when the other trials start," said Shari Sawyer, referring to Nichols' trial and 169 additional murder charges McVeigh faces.

The just-completed Denver trial focused on the eight federal agents killed in the blast.

She was pronounced dead at the scene by Deputy Coroner Albert Ransom at 1:05 p.m. Wednesday. Hawkins had been shot three times, once each in the head, left shoulder blade and right thigh, Stone said.

She had been reported missing to Collinsville police by her live-in companion, Martin Kovarik, on June 3.

According to a police report, Hawkins was last seen about 10 p.m. May 31. She told Kovarik she was going to a church bingo, the report said.

Stone said that Hawkins' car was found abandoned on June 1 by East St. Louis police at 17th and Lincoln, only a short distance from where her body was later discovered.

Shari Sawyer said she has sympathy for McVeigh's family, but none for McVeigh.

"Before he dies, they'll at least be able to say goodbye to him," she said. "And he had 60 people get on the stand and plead for his life. But we didn't get to plead with him before he killed Jay's mom."

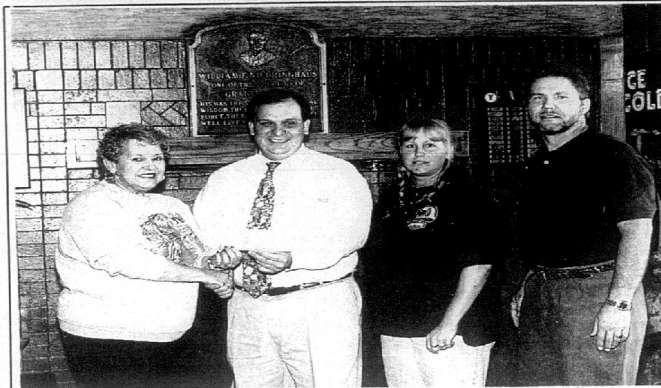

Sawyer said he, while relieved to know that McVeigh will pay for his crimes, still is trying to fathom the mind of the 28-year-old "model soldier" who sat poker-faced for two months while prosecutors and defense attorneys argued his fate. His attorneys said McVeigh was motivated by anger against the government, which he held responsible for civil-rights abuses, most notably the 1993 federal siege of the Branch Davidian enclave at Waco, Texas.

"I firmly believe he doesn't think he did anything wrong, didn't think he was going to found guilty and definitely didn't think he was going to get the death penalty," Sawyer said.

"He thinks what he did was right and if his beliefs are that strong that he's willing to die for them, well, he's going to die for them," Sawyer said.

Sawyer said he hopes McVeigh will find it in his conscience to come forward and explain the terrorist plot as it happened, naming all parties involved in the attack.

"It won't spare his life, but it would show some integrity and help the country put the whole thing behind us."

contact. About 200 people who had contact with those infected received treatment of immune-globulin solution, which contains antibodies to ward off the disease.

Tscheschlok said the treatment and public education about hand-washing may have helped to reduce the spread of the outbreak.

The outbreak occurred in three stages. Eighteen cases were reported in March and again in April in Madison County.

Two related cases were reported in Macoupin County in March. Only seven cases were reported in May in Madison County.

The incubation period can range from two to six weeks, although the most common range is three or four weeks.

Costello denies links to Cueto businesses

Congressman addresses issues from trial

By Michelle Duell
Staff writer

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello has denied involvement with Amiel Cueto in Cueto's attempts to thwart a federal investigation of racketeer Tom Venezia, who is serving 15 years in prison for operating an illegal gambling operation.

Costello also denied that he accepted an offer from Cueto for a third of East St. Louis riverfront property that was being considered as a site for a gambling casino for an Indian tribe.

Costello made the comments at a press conference Saturday, three days after Cueto, a powerful St. Clair County attorney, was convicted on four counts of obstructing justice during a federal investigation and one count to defraud the United States government.

During Cueto's trial in U.S. District Court in East St. Louis, St. Clair County State's Attorney Bob Haida testified that Costello, D-Belleville, had been a long-time friend of Cueto.

Haida also said that Costello had offered to use his political influence to have Haida promoted to judge if Haida would convince St. Clair County Board Chairman John Haricewicz to name Cueto as Haida's successor.

Costello, Haida said, wanted Cueto to have the position so that Cueto could discredit Bonds Robinson, the state liquor control commission agent who was investigating Venezia's gambling operation.

At the press conference Saturday, Costello said he had had no business ties to Cueto since he sold his interest in a Granite City liquor and lottery store in 1992. However, he said, he and Cueto were close friends.

Despite their friendship, he denied any ties to Venezia. "I have never been in a personal partnership with Venezia," Costello said. "And I have not had a business relationship with Cueto since 1992."

He also denied pressuring anyone to have Cueto placed in a judgeship.

Concerning his knowledge of a land-based gambling casino for an Indian tribe, Costello said he knew nothing about it. Costello said that the only information he knew regarding the casino came through a local attorney, Phil Montavo, with whom he met at Cueto's request.

During the meeting, which was held in Cueto's office, Costello said, Montavo called a representative of the Pottawatomie Indian tribe. He was told that legislation supporting an effort by the tribe to build an information center and museum on the river front property owned by Cueto was being proposed.

He was told, he said, that a gambling casino might "eventually be built on the property," and that was all he knew about it.

He then learned, he said, that the bill supporting the plans for the Indian tribe had already passed the Senate by unanimous vote and was ready to go before the House of Representatives.

"It passed through the House of Representatives," Costello said. "I did not testify in favor of this legislation or speak in favor of the bill until Aug. 3 (1993)," he said. "I did vote for the legislation on Aug. 4."

Costello admitted that Cueto, who he was "told" owned the 30-acre riverfront property on which the museum and information center would be built, offered him 10 acres of it. Costello said he turned down the offer, and that he had no proof that Cueto actually owned the land.

Costello said that at no time during Cueto's trial had he been able to address the public regarding Haida's testimony.

"They (constituents) expect to hear from me, and that is why I'm holding this press conference today," he said.

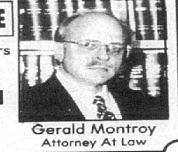

Though Cueto was convicted of obstructing justice, Costello said he plans to remain loyal to Cueto's family.

Luffman, Hayley Elizabeth

the best nephrologist in the area," Ellerman said. "And didn't pay a dime for it."

While the story may illustrate what is wrong with the health care industry in America - unreimbursed treatment that is expensive to provide - it also exemplifies what is right with SEMC.

The hospital has a philosophy that no patient in need should be turned away due to inability to pay. It is a philosophy based on humanity rather than the bottom line.

The Family Health Center at SEMC is another example of that philosophy.

The Koch Center served more than 18,000 patients in 1996, according to Dr. Edward Wolff, medical director at the facility. Nearly half of them were children. Most had no insurance.

Many were out of work.

Those who utilized the Koch Center came for a variety of health reasons: diabetes, hypertension, pregnancy, baby checkups, infections, influenza, immunizations - nearly every illness imaginable, Wolff said.

The Koch Center also takes patients that have reported to the emergency room but do not have emergency needs. The Koch Center can treat those conditions at about one-third the cost to treat them in an emergency room setting, Wolff said.

But because the average public aid payment is $18 a visit, the Koch Center cannot operate without donations.

Enter the WINGS campaign.

Every dollar donated to the 1997 WINGS (We're Investing in New Growth at St. Elizabeth) campaign at SEMC will go toward the operation of the Koch Family Health Center.

The Koch Center enhances the health of those who utilize it. But it also improves the health of the entire community, according to Wolff and Ellerman.

The Koch Center prevents minor illnesses from becoming catastrophic diseases. It prevents the spread of sexually transmitted diseases. And it immunizes children who are sitting next to your child in school," Wolff said.

A contribution to the WINGS campaign is an investment in the health of the entire community," Ellerman said.

Playground to honor bombing victim

By Cheryl A. Moody
Staff writer

The memory of Dolores Bernadine Stratton is being kept alive.

A playground will be dedicated in memory of Stratton at 10 a.m. Friday in the Don Bosco Children's Center, 300 Church St.

Stratton died in the April 19, 1995, bombing at the Alfred P. Murrah Federal Building in Oklahoma City.

The class of 1961 from St. Theresa's Academy raised $530 toward the purchase of the playground equipment, communications and development coordinator Lori Marshall said.

An additional $500 was given to Stratton's children to help with travel expenses at the time of the bombing.

Stratton, a former resident, graduated in 1961 from the all-girls academy, which was then in East St. Louis.

"We wanted to do something because she was our classmate," Karen Landrum said.

Stratton's children, Michelle and Jay Sawyer, who reside in the Metro East, will be at Friday's dedication.

The center is an emergency shelter for abused and neglected children under 12, Marshall said.

Services are scheduled for 2:30 p.m. today, Wednesday, June 18, at Friedens United Church of Christ, 207 E. Center, Troy, with the Rev. Nancy Goss officiating.

Memorials are suggested to C.A. Henning School's Library or Playground Fund.

Arrangements were handled by Laughlin Funeral Home, 205 Edwardsville Road, Troy.

According to last year's audit, as of April 1996, only $9,064 in business license fees were collected.

However, the following year's audit, from May 1996 to April 1997 showed that the clerk's office collected $19,923, Falter said.

"That's an increase of over $10,000," Trustee Gus Falter said Monday.

Rowden was stripped of her duties as village clerk last April in a unanimous vote, and her responsibilities were placed with the comptroller's office.

The only responsibilities she now has are keeping minutes and filing and sealing ordinances.

Rowden first came under fire after the April 4 election.

"I'm having to fill out a Freedom of Information Act to get a copy of the last year's audit," Rowden said, adding she wanted to see for herself how many dollars short the business license fees were.

The police department won't work with her, Rowden said.

"All they want to do is get me," she said. "But I have 22 months to go and I'm not resigning."

Safety supervisor wins BAC award

GCC's Linda Doerge is named 1997 Administrator of the Year

It may be true that good guys wear white but Linda Doerge is proof that good gals wear white, too.

Visitors to Belleville Area College's Granite City Campus will recognize Doerge in her white uniform shirt, black pants and badge that she wears as the campus's public safety supervisor.

Doerge's co-workers recognize her ever-present smile, her pleasant demeanor and her willingness to help anyone, anytime. These and other reasons are why Doerge, of Glen Carbon, is the recipient of BAC's 1997 Administrator of the Year Award.

Winning the award is special for Doerge. But even more special for her is that it was her boss, GCC Provost Dr. Harold Johnson, who nominated her.

"To have your direct supervisor nominate you and to know he respects the job you do means a lot to me," Doerge said.

Doerge has seen the GCC, and her own department, grow

"A lot of times, we're the first people that students see. If I'm walking around grumpy or if my officers are walking around grumpy, that doesn't give them a good first impression of the college."

— Linda Doerge

in the six years she has held her current position. Today, her department includes two full-time and eight part-time officers, two dispatchers and a student worker.

Supervising effectively requires not only knowing the people in your department, Doerge said, but also knowing how your department interacts with the rest of the college.

Good public interaction is also crucial, Doerge said.

"We're public relations on campus. A lot of times, we're the first people that students see," she said. "If I'm walking around grumpy or if my officers are walking around grumpy, that doesn't give them a good first impression of the college."

It is appropriate that Doerge works for a college because she is a firm believer in continuing education.

"Actually, getting the job here prompted me to go back and finish college," Doerge is pursuing her master's degree in public administration from SIU-Edwardsville and she hopes to eventually obtain her doctorate.

When she's not making the GCC a safer, friendly place, Doerge is teaching first aid and CPR classes for the American Red Cross. She also is chairman of the American Red Cross Tri-Cities chapter.

Doerge lives in Glen Carbon with her husband, Charlie, and her son, Charlie, 12.

Her husband is particularly supportive because he also is in the law enforcement field, serving as a deputy U.S. Marshall.

"If I'm working on a project, he'll say, 'Have you thought about this or have you tried that?'" she said. "We also have a lot of the same type of stresses so we understand what the other person's going through."

Many groups dropped ball in SWC-Lincoln flap

East St. Louis Lincoln's ouster from the Southwestern Conference leaves a bad taste in my mouth and some lingering questions in my mind.

I understand the positions of SWC Commissioner Dennis Bechtold and the participating schools' principals and athletic directors. When they say they saw no other alternative to the action taken, I believe them.

That may solve their problem with the whole scenario, but it doesn't solve mine.

The trouble hinges on the East St. Louis school board's recent removal of the intra-district boundary for high schools in District 189.

In short, a high school student living anywhere in the East St. Louis district can now attend the school of his or her choice, either Lincoln or East Side.

That's the part the Southwestern Conference doesn't like.

Lincoln knew that going in. Definite school boundaries between Lincoln and East Side were mandatory for Lincoln to enter the SWC and to remain in the conference through its three-year probationary period.

So when the school board rescinded the boundaries determining high school attendance, the SWC rescinded the probationary status of East St. Louis Lincoln.

Friday night's vote was 10-2, with newcomers Edwardsville and Lincoln not allowed to vote.

Case closed. Well, officially, yes. It's just that in my mind the case is still open. And Monday morning, in the third day since the decision, I found myself wondering out loud.

I guess I don't fully understand the school boundary problem in a conference that never seemed to have problems with three decades worth of blatant importing of basketball talent by Collinsville High School.

Collinsville, as I recall, robbed Madison blind in the late 1950s and early '60s, crafting a 32-0 state championship team in 1961 that had more starters who were ex-Trojans than were Collinsville natives.

But, of course, Collinsville had school boundaries.

East St. Louis doesn't.

That, I suppose, is the difference. Of course, I'm not sure what the difference is between not having boundaries and having them but ignoring them.

Which raises yet another question in my mind. Why is Lincoln out and East Side in? Both schools exist in a no-boundary district. Not just Lincoln. Why then, is Lincoln the only school being punished?

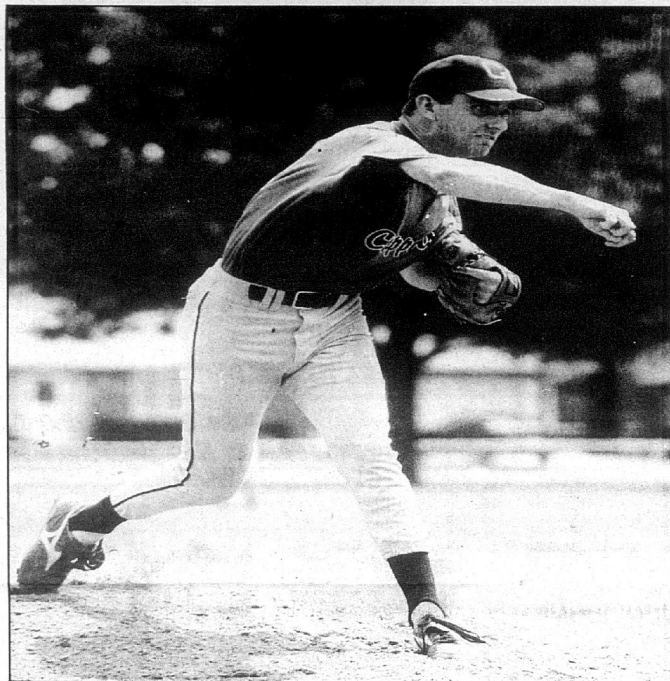

If the absence of school boundaries is anathema to the Southwestern Conference, and if such is the sole reason for Lincoln's ouster, what is East Side still doing in the conference?

I already know the answer to my question, I think. East Side's status is not probationary. But is it strictly probation that makes the difference between the exclusion of one school and the inclusion of another?

To me the bottom line is that if both schools are doing something the SWC believes is unacceptable for conference members, why aren't they

Hendrickson hurls perfect game

Former GCHS pitcher blanks Brighton 17-0 through five frames

Darin Hendrickson has had numerous highlights in a baseball career that extends back to Granite City High School, moves through Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville and the College World Series, and continues yet today in the Legion and Mon-Clair Leagues.

But what happened Sunday had never before happened to Hendrickson.

The Fontbonne College men's baseball coach and ace of Granite City's Mon-Clair League team threw a rare perfect game as the Eagles routed host Brighton 17-0 in the first game of a twin bill.

The game was stopped after five innings due to the ten-run rule. By that time, Hendrickson had retired all 15 batters, seven of them on strikes.

"I have had a pair of no-hitters," recalled Hendrickson. "Two years ago, I threw a no-hitter in a Mon-Clair game, but walked a batter. And in a Legion game, a batter reached first when the catcher dropped the third strike. But this is the first perfect game I have ever thrown.

Hendrickson, who admits to being highly competitive, even more than his friends understand, was overpowering on the afternoon.

"It was satisfying," he said of his performance, "but not as satisfying as it might have been several years ago. I still have the enthusiasm, but I'm

The official Southwestern Conference position stated, "The creation of an intra-district boundary for the East St. Louis High Schools was a primary factor in the terms and conditions of East St. Louis Lincoln's continued probationary membership. The removal of the boundary was considered by the conference membership to be a(n) untenable situation for the conference."

Robinson: Athletics transfer oversteps IHSA boundaries

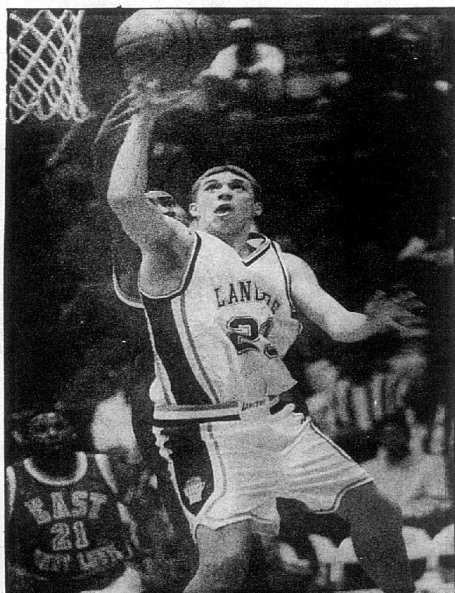

By Patrick C. Heston
Staff writer

With the East St. Louis school board recently dissolving attendance boundaries in District 189 and with the Chicago Public League recently giving in to pressure to create boundaries after years of open attendance, the average fan is left somewhat confused as to what constitutes proper compliance with Illinois High School Association regulations.

"Both do," said IHSA Associate Executive Director Don Robinson.

"The Illinois High School Association has no authority to tell any school district. You must send kids on one side of this street to one school and kids on the other side of this street to

The Slam is back — and it's better than ever.

The Dr. Pepper Summer Slam, featuring 16 of the area's top high school boys basketball teams, will be held Thursday through Saturday in the main and intramural gyms at Belleville Area College.

The fourth-year event, organized by Belleville West head coach Bill Schmidt and Alhaff assistant coach Don Hald, has a new sponsor in Dr. Pepper and is being held in June instead of July.

"We've attracted the best field we've ever had, and I credit a lot of that to Don Hald," Schmidt said. "Galesburg, which is in the tournament for the first time, promises to be one of the better teams in the state with 6-5 swingman Joey Range. They're going to be in the (Coca-Cola/KMOX) Shootout (Dec. 11)."

"We have two other Shootout teams — Centralia (which beat Mascoutah in last year's championship game) and Edwardsville. They're both loaded coming back. We've gone across the river for the first time and added a couple Missouri schools, SLUH (St. Louis University High) supposed the attendance line between the two schools, and that line was required if Lincoln was to get in and stay in the SWC. Lincoln was booted from the conference.

Part of the problem from an SWC perspective lay in the fact that the East St. Louis school board failed to notify any SWC school officials of their decision to dissolve the boundary line.

Commissioner Dennis Bechtold, Athletic Director at Belleville East High School, learned of it from a story in a newspaper.

Which, ironically, is the way Lincoln Athletic Director Jimmy Adams found out about the SWC vote.

"I was not expecting it to happen," said Adams. "I was in Arkansas taking care of some family business. When I returned, I was shown a paper carrying the story of the action taken by the Southwestern Conference. I thought it was some thing that could have, and should have, been worked out. From our perspective, we tried to make it work. But it just didn't."

Bechtold praised Adams and Lincoln Principal Jimmy Lewis, calling them "extremely cooperative during the entire probationary period."

"And even at Friday's meeting, everyone was amicable," he added.

But according to Bechtold, there were six or seven items with which Lincoln was required to comply to maintain their conference standing. One of those items was the existence of attendance boundaries in the East St. Louis school district. It is this agreement that was violated when the school board rescinded the line.

At that time, said Bechtold, "there was no other position we could take. We saw no other alternative. (Lincoln) didn't meet the stipulations. The (school) board's decision did surprise us. We assumed they would follow the guidelines, especially since they fielded teams in the necessary sports."

But Lincoln had a point of concern that went well beyond athletics.

"The present line of enrollment concerned us," said Adams. "If the line remained unchanged, there would hardly be a need for Lincoln High School in 1997-98. Nearly all the high school students would have been on the opposite side of that line."

Concerned parents and faculty from Lincoln approached the school board, asking that the attendance boundaries be reviewed and if possible, realigned.

Board president Geraldine Jenkins was unavailable for comment but, Adams said the board then formed a committee to study the Lincoln request that the line be redrawn in an attempt to balance population between the two schools.

When the parent and faculty representatives returned for another meeting with the board, they were informed that a 1988 court case had led to the removal of a school boundary line in East St. Louis.

As a result, the city had no line until it drew one two years ago to help Lincoln into the SWC to avoid legal problems similar to those encountered in 1988, the board decided to simply dissolve the line once more.

"I wish our board would have worked things out," Adams said. "I was very disappointed they did not. But, I also wish the Southwestern Conference would have tried to work this out. It didn't have to come to this. But now, all the cards have been played. It's over."

Bechtold's position was that

"Lincoln has basically withdrawn itself. This (boundary line) was a major point in them coming in to the SWC."

In the end, Lincoln is once more a school without a conference — an extremely expensive thing to be. The SWC decision has sent Lincoln coaches scurrying to fill schedules that until Friday evening were thought to be already be full.

"We're just mad," said Adams. "But we really wanted to be in the Southwestern Conference. It was something that was good for Lincoln. And I think Lincoln was good for the conference."

"As a school, we were doing everything we could do to maintain our conference standing. I don't know what we'll do now. Maybe we'll apply to the South Seven Conference for membership. A chapter in Lincoln's history has ended that didn't have to end."

•Boundaries

another school," Robinson explained. "We aren't even interested in that. That is each school district's decision and whatever decision they make is fine with us."

What that means, as far as District 189 is concerned, is that if a kid on the east side of East St. Louis wants to play basketball at Lincoln and another kid from the west side wants to play football at

East Side, it's no problem to the IHSA.

Where the IHSA has a problem is when a student at one East St. Louis school decides to transfer to the other.

"Once someone becomes a student at a particular school, they fall under the IHSA's authority of transfer," Robinson said. "At that point, the IHSA creates a boundary even if the school district does not have one. Once you enroll as a student in a specific school, you are tied into that school for the remainder of your high school career. The only exception to this rule is a legitimate transfer."

And that's the rub.

What is a legitimate transfer? "Basically," said Robinson, "if it has to do with athletics, it is legitimate."

In a non-boundary school district like East St. Louis, where students can attend the high school of their choice, a curriculum situation is essentially the only valid reason for a transfer.

And that is not simply a matter of preferring classes or teachers at one school.

In the curriculum situation, the IHSA is referring to essential courses which a student needs that are taught at one school but not at the other," Robinson said. "In such cases, where academics is the true reason behind a transfer, that transfer is considered legitimate."

In basically any other situation, a transfer is illegitimate.

If, for example, a student transfers from one East St. Louis school to the other, he or she must sit out of athletics for one calendar year.

The Illinois High School Association did not force the Chicago Public League to draw attendance lines for its schools, any more than we would force East St. Louis to put their line back," Robinson said.

edily had the best sophomore group in the area last year and Troy Mo., will also be here.

Mount Vernon (Class AA) and Nashville (Class A) were both Elite Eight teams last year and basically have their whole team returning.

Thursday's first-round lineup features Edwardsville vs. Mater Dei, O'Fallon vs. Nashville, Galesburg vs. DuPont, Belleville West vs. SLUH, Belleville East vs. Mascoutah, Centralia vs. Troy, Mount Vernon vs. Galesburg, and Alhambra vs. Collinsville. All teams are guaranteed four games.

As in past Summer Slams, games will consist of two 20-minute halves. The clock will run continuously for the first 20 minutes of each half, then run under regular-season conditions for the final two minutes.

"(Summer tournaments) are getting more and more popular in high school basketball," Schmidt said. "One thing Don and I have tried to accomplish is having as strong a field as possible and still keep the local flavor. In that respect, Summer Slam IV is an excellent basketball tournament."

(BAC athletic director) Jay Harrington and his staff have been a big help in our success."

Top players in the tournament include Edwardsville's Jon Harris, Belleville East's Josh Helbig, Centralia's Ty Moss and Luke Sharp, Alhambra's Jay Fisher, Collinsville's Shawn Moore, O'Fallon's Ralph Holmes and Belleville West's David Miller and Bryan Swift.

Insurance company is mailing refunds to policyholders

Country Life Insurance Co. is mailing premium refunds totaling about $123,000 to Plan F Medicare Supplement policyholders. The refunds are the result of claims filed in 1996.

"We are pleased to be able to offer this refund, and I think our policyholders will be pleasantly surprised when they get their refund checks in the mail," said Don Engelkes, vice president and general manager of Country Life. "As an added bonus for policyholders, our 1997 premium rate for this Medicare Supplement coverage is among the lowest in the state."

About 3,075 Illinois Medicare Supplement policyholders will receive refund checks totaling $40.04 per policy. The checks will be mailed to all Plan F Medicare Supplement policyholders who had policies with Country Life on Dec. 31, 1996. The checks include interest accrued from Jan. 1 to June 16.

Insurance companies are required by law to refund policyholders when the amount of total premium collected vs. the amount spent to pay claims is more than what is allowed by the Illinois Medicare Supplement Minimum Standards.

You asked...so we delivered.

At Memorial Maternity Center, we strive to meet your needs. We asked our patients what was important to them.

As a result, we've added some childbirth education classes as well as changed some existing ones to meet your needs. Our childbirth education classes will help you prepare for a birth experience that will meet your expectations!

Prepared Childbirth Class

This class provides eight hours of in-depth preparation for labor and birth, including breathing and relaxation exercises. Options for you and your baby's care at Memorial Maternity Center will be shared to help make your birth a personalized and positive experience. Participants are encouraged to register before the fifth month of pregnancy and attendance is limited to those delivering at Memorial. There is a $25 per couple fee. Call 257-5855 for class dates and times.

Childbirth Refresher Class

The Childbirth Refresher Class is designed to give experienced parents updated information about the latest trends in labor, delivery and newborn care. Limited to those who will deliver at Memorial, this class is held from 7 to 9 p.m. on the first Monday of the month. $5 per couple fee. For more information, call 257-5855.

Vaginal Birth After Cesarean (VBAC) Class

This class addresses questions about vaginal births after cesarean (VBAC) and why VBAC's can be safer than repeat cesarean deliveries for both mother and baby. You also will learn how to maximize your chances of having a vaginal birth. Class meets 7-9 p.m. on the fourth Tuesday of the month. It is free to those attending Prepared Childbirth or Refresher Classes (we strongly recommend attending these as well) or $5 fee per couple if not taking these classes. Call 257-5855 to register.

Baby Care and Parenting Classes

This two-session program teaches you how to care for, play with and protect your infant from birth to age 12 months. Topics presented include: newborn care, infant feeding, baby bathing, when to call the

Local graduates earn scholarships

Jessica Jones, a senior at Althoff High School, has been awarded a $300 scholarship by River Bluffs Girl Scout Council's Cadette/Senior Roundtable.

Each year this group holds an event to sponsor three scholarships in the council's 5½-county area.

Jones will attend Meramec Community College in the fall. To earn the scholarship, she displayed outstanding abilities in leadership and community service both in Girl Scouting, as well as in all other areas of her life.

Melynda Dunkle was recently selected winner of the Triad District Teacher's Scholarship.

The Triad High School senior is the daughter of Jeffrey and Louise Dunkle of Troy.

The $1,200 scholarship is awarded to a high school senior interested in a career in teaching.

Kristina L. Strobel, a senior at O'Fallon Township High School, is the recipient of the Helen L. and Phillip Kraft Scholarship for the 1997-98 academic year at the St. Louis College of Pharmacy.

She will begin at the college in the fall. The $3,500 scholarship is given to a first-year student who graduated in the top 20 percent of his or her class and scored 27 or above on the ACT test.

'Speed 2' offers audience second thrill-ride

By Ronnie Roy
Staff writer

Pull over. "Speed 2 Cruise Control" is rushing toward a theater near you. And like before, there's no stopping it. Sandra Bullock returns as Annie Porter, trying to get her driver's license and happy with her new boyfriend, beach cop Alex Shaw (Jason Patric). Annie had broken up with previous beau, Jack (Keanu Reeves from the first film), because she couldn't deal with his high-risk, dangerous job. While taking her driving test she gets wrapped up in a high-speed chase and discovers that Alex has another job on the side — high-risk, dangerous L.A. SWAT team member. This doesn't please Annie, but the cruise tickets Alex pulls out of his back pocket calm her down long enough for the couple to board the Seabourn Legend and the plot to get under way. As fate would have it, also aboard the ship is John Geiger (Willem Dafoe), the man who designed all the ship's computer navigation controls and who is a little upset that the company laid him off after learning he was terminally ill. In no time he has taken over the ship and set it on a collision course with an oil tanker. And you thought disgruntled postal employees were bad. You can guess where it all goes from there. Director Jan De Bont delivers all the non-stop, thrill-ride action and explosions you'd expect, and if your suspension-of-disbelief tolerance is high, it's a good ride.

But like many sequels, while it pumps up the special effects, it loses many other qualities that made the original special. Patric, while an acceptable hero, lacks the charisma of Reeves. The shipmates helping him also don't bring to the show what Jeff Daniels did as Reeves' partner.

"Speed" also had going for it the mystery of who the villain was and what he was after. Dafoe tells you everything from the get-go.

HOROSCOPE

Wednesday, June 18
Early this morning, the moon enters adventurous Sagittarius, encouraging people to open their minds and free themselves from physical restrictions. Bring a change of clothes and go for a run during your lunch break — business is better than ever when you get back. Find ways to include new ideas in old patterns. Lovers want to know about the future, so be ready to discuss it.

ARIES (March 21-April 19). Express the inner you! It's a great time to make a new conquest. Overtime hours in the weeks ahead will pay off monetarily. Follow the suggestions of friends. Your mate brings in extra cash.

Taurus (April 20-May 20). A dashing, desirous sense of urgency from Mars manifests in marvelous romantic gestures. Ignore one who tries to compete with you — you're the acknowledged leader. Vibrations favor remaining firmly on one's own feet.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21). Show your feelings rather boldly — Venus' bluish signifies approval. There are monetary limits on this should only be an incentive to the creative imagination. An association with a Scorpio is lucky.

CANCER (June 22-July 22). Get cozy with loved ones. Even if surrounded by kids and unable to afford a sitter, couples can give each other a tender touch or hint at a tantalizing secret memory that only they could understand.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22). Looking on the bright side is easy enough. Home projects, gardening or lawn care and other home tasks are ways to reaffirm the commitment to daily life that you share with that certain one.

TODAY'S BIRTHDAY (June 18). Write, publish or learn a computer skill that increases your communications ability! Wishes made on a star are coming true but not without hard work. Love found in July intensifies in late August. Proposals come at the end of summer. Hot prospects are Aquarius and Leo. Job offers may get confusing in October and November. Hold out for the big one.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22). Attractive offers are coming soon. You're ready to take a little risk, but use much care.

SALUTE TO AMERICAN WORKERS
What is an American worker? You are! That's because our furniture is made with a certain kind of pride. The same pride that once made American furniture the envy of the world. And before the turn of the century, American made products were indeed, second to none. Today, there are those who are sure, that American workers have lost their pride. And we're proving those people wrong at Barewood Furniture Gallery. And we'll continue to make our world class furniture with pride at work. You still have pride of ownership.

Lively Taste

Combine 2/3 cup frozen orange juice concentrate (thawed), 1/2 cup bottled lemon juice, 2 tablespoons Dijon mustard and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Mix well. Combine 1/2 cup juice mixture with 2 medium peaches or nectarines, peeled, seeded, sliced. Frequently taste 1 pound skinless, boneless chicken breast halves -- as they are grilled or broiled -- with remaining mixture. Slice chicken in strips. Serve on salad greens or in pita pockets with chopped lettuce, tomato and green onion.

Medicine Chest

Like diagnosing it, treating Alzheimer's disease is an inexact science.

INSIDE

Fresh Picks

Slice fresh fruit or sprinkle berries or cherries over angel food cake or pudding. For fruity topper, add Raspberry Sauce, made by cooking 1 package (10 ounces) frozen raspberries, thawed, with 3 to 4 tablespoons sugar and 1 tablespoon lemon juice in a small saucepan over low heat until desired consistency. For thicker sauce, cook with 1 tablespoon cornstarch.

Big Fat Tip

Cincinnati Herb Crust accents seafood, poultry or meat with Greek flavors from that city's well-known chili. Combine 2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh mint, 2 tablespoons finely chopped fresh parsley, 1 tablespoon finely chopped fresh oregano, 1 teaspoon grated lemon zest and 2 cloves garlic, minced. Rub on all edges of meat or seafood. On seafood, let sit no more than 20 minutes; on meat it can be covered and left in refrigerator several hours or even overnight. Use the rub dry or mix it with 1 to 2 teaspoons lemon juice to form a paste.

Future Shop

Some day a crispy cake made of multi-grains may be as familiar as rice and corn cakes -- and its package may bear an image of a Mizzou tiger. Food science students at University of Missouri-Columbia have developed fat-free, crunchy disks that contain wild rice, wheat, yellow corn and sorghum for flavor. Their flavor bears more of a savory, grain-like profile than the sweeter taste of rice cakes available today. There are no plans yet to market Mizzou Multi-Grain Munchies.

Show-Offs

Green peppers and onions are meant to step out into a sunny spotlight. They grab an opportunity to kick their heels. They yearn for roles with zesty flavors that let them zing instead of sing.

To enhance the cooking ensemble, give them support and stars that enhance their best profile.

For instance, salsa exhibits a broad range of heat. It can be cast from the pantry chorus or developed to take its place in the flavor lineup. Adding or subtracting flavors gives each dish an individual voice. Using vegetables and beans for emphasis adds fat in small doses, too.

Prepared salsa cuts preparation time. So do chicken breasts that have been boned and skinned. The same goes for vegetables already chopped. Canned beans tap to a faster staccato than dry beans; rinsing them several times reduces their sodium content.

Let Texas Chicken double-time the step. Mix 1-1/2 cups picante sauce, 3 tablespoons packed light brown sugar and 1 tablespoon Dijon mustard. Pour this mixture over 4 boneless, skinless chicken breasts in a 2-quart shallow baking dish. Bake in preheated 400 degree oven 20 minutes or until chicken is done. Serve the chicken and sauce with hot cooked rice and favorite vegetables that have been steamed.

Simple products, like concentrated butter flavoring in sprinkle form, can help keep fat low, too. For flavorful recipes from Butter Buds, call toll-free 1-800-231-1123 during weekday business hours.

For a simple, lively Shrimp Hoedown, drop 1 pound large shrimp, shelled and cleaned with tails intact, into a boiling mixture of 1/2 cup white wine, 1/4 cup Worcestershire sauce and about 1 teaspoon Cajun spice mix. Reduce heat to simmer and cook shrimp 3 to 4 minutes until they turn pink. Stir in 1 packet butter seasoning mix until dissolved. Add 1/4 cup minced fresh cilantro, basil or parsley. Cool and refrigerate until well chilled. Drain before serving.

Private Label Test Run

Fruit-flavored snacks are packaged for childlike satisfaction.

Everything in world has its sweet place

Like everything, creepie critters have their place in this world. Apparently one favorite location is on the movie screen. The second choice is in candy.

Testers this week — old and young — tried Schnucks fruit snacks. They tried Creepies and a variety pack of snacks in the assorted fruit flavors.

"My sons certainly liked the shapes of the Creepies," a mom said.

An adult who tested them on her own said, "There is the pure fun aspect of chowing down on rats, spiders and snakes. Mmmmm good!"

She said they had a nice texture and were full of flavor, although more of a citrus than a fruit flavor.

"The individual flavors, including orange and lemon, were obvious. The only one I couldn't quite place was the cherry one in the Creepies," a tester said.

A youngster who tried them had loose teeth, so he had a little trouble trying to chew them. On the other hand, his younger brother, who tested the variety pack, had no trouble swallowing the simple shapes in his single-flavored pack. An individual pouch has grape, strawberry or cherry flavor.

Each package, which holds 6 pouches of less than 1 ounce each, costs $1.69. Other packages are available in shark or dinosaur shapes.

"The shapes, for those who are interested, are easy to identify and the colors are bright. That should be an attraction for kids," a taster said.

While one noted that the individual pouches were not as generous as she would like, another thought the size was suited for packing as a snack in a bag lunch. She said the size was good even for warm weather to avoid too much stickiness on fingers.

"These things are called 'fruit snacks,' but they are pretty much colored sugar," she said, "so they are really just what kids today think is a fruit-flavored substitute for a mini candy bar. There is no nutritional value to them, as there would be a piece of fruit."

Supermarket trip yields south-of-border imprint

Supermarket checkers get a workout when I come through the line.

"What is this?" they say, as they flip through their book of produce codes. It is fun not only to stump the checkers, but once I get home it is like a mini-trip abroad to sample some of the "exotic" produce increasingly available in today's market.

Remember when kiwifruit seemed unusual? Now they five or 10 cost only $1 on sale. Bok choy, spaghetti squash, snow peas, starfruit, ginger root, portabella mushrooms and fugi apples appear in more carts than ever.

Let me introduce another enjoyable "exotic" of Mexican origin, the jicama (pronounced HEE-kuh-muh). Easy to overlook, it is a large brown tuber resembling a turnip weighing three to five pounds. Inside is a white, crunchy flesh similar to a water chestnut, only slightly sweeter and less expensive. A 3½-ounce serving has only 39 calories and 25 percent of the U.S. recommended daily allowance for vitamin C.

My preference is small jicamas because I find them less woody, but any well-formed tuber free of cracks or bruises is fine. Once home, jicama keeps well in a refrigerator several weeks. They taste starchy and less sweet if stored too long. Cut pieces, wrapped and refrigerated, can be kept 1 week.

Jicama is versatile. Because of its crispness, it is delectable sliced into stir-fry recipes as a substitute for water chestnuts. It is also a refreshing addition to a vegetable dip tray or in salad, such as spinach salad. Kids usually like it right away.

Jicama also can be microwaved in cubes or julienne strips as a side vegetable. Place about 3 cups cubed or sliced jicama in a casserole with ¼ cup water.

Microwave, covered, on high power 8 to 9 minutes, stirring once. On a stovetop, cook it only until tender-crisp. Serve with honey, butter, salt and pepper, sweet-and-sour sauce, sour cream or yogurt dressing.

Jicama slaw is appealing in south-of-the-border flavor. It makes a great side dish for a summer party. Adjust the chili powder and cayenne to change its "heat."

JICAMA SLAW

Juice of 2 limes (about ½ cup juice)
 ½ tsp. salt, or to taste
 ½ tsp. chili powder
 1/8 tsp. cayenne pepper
 1 lb. jicama, peeled, sliced in julienne strips (about 3 cups)
 3 green onions, chopped

In large bowl, stir together lime juice, salt, chili powder and cayenne. Toss with jicama to coat with dressing.

Using slotted spoon, lift out jicama and mound on platter.

Arrange orange around edge. Drizzle with remaining dressing. Garnish with chopped green onion.

Makes 6 servings; 66 calories, 184 mg sodium and 90 percent RDA vitamin C each.

Freeze summer fruits for icy summer treasure

Ice cream is a cherished summer dessert. Its traditional ingredients of whole milk, cream and sugar do not add up to a recipe for anyone limiting intake of fat, especially saturated fat.

Another cherished summer food is fresh, ripe fruit, which contains no cholesterol and is virtually fat-free and sodium-free. Frozen with low-fat ingredients, it easily becomes the "new" frozen treat of choice.

Today's goal is to eat at least five servings of fruits and vegetables a day. Peaches and nectarines are rolling into local markets, ready to help fulfill this aim.

Although nectarines have the slick skin of a plum, they are a full-fledged member of the peach family, so closely related sometimes a nectarine tree bears a branch of peaches and vice versa. The flesh of either can be yellow or white.

Both have plentiful vitamin C, fiber and potassium, with yellow-fleshed ones adding vitamin A. California supplies 95 percent of the nectarine crop, but the South contributes to the state's efforts to produce about half the peaches for the U.S.

Registered dietitian Kathleen Obert is a member of the nutrition committee of the American Heart Association, St. Louis Chapter.

PEACHY BERRY FREEZE

4 ripe peaches, sliced
 4 ripe nectarines, sliced
 1 envelope plain gelatin
 ½ cup water
 ½ cup sugar
 2 cartons (8 oz. each) low-fat strawberry yogurt calories, 2 g fat and 145 mg sodium each (without salt). Food exchanges: 1 vegetable, 1 starch, 4 meat.

FIESTA FRITTATA

1 medium zucchini, diced (about 1½ cups)
 1 medium red bell pepper, diced (about 1 cup)
 ½ cup diced red onion
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1 packet butter seasoning granules, liquefied according to directions
 2 eggs
 6 egg whites
 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
 2 tsp. grated parmesan cheese
 2 tsp. chopped fresh basil or parsley

1/2 tsp. almond extract, if desired

In blender or food processor, puree peaches and nectarines until smooth and fruit measures about 3½ cups.

In small saucepan over medium heat, stir and cook gelatin and water until gelatin dissolves. Reduce heat to low. Add sugar. Remove from heat. Stir until sugar dissolves.

Stir fruit puree, yogurt and almond extract into gelatin mixture. Freeze in ice cream maker, according to manufacturer's directions.

Freezer directions: Freeze mixture in flat utility dish 2 hours. Cut in chunks and whip well. Freeze at least 2 hours.

Makes eight (1-cup) servings; 173 calories, 4 g protein, 36 g carbohydrate, 2 g fat, 6 mg cholesterol and 35 mg sodium each.

Alzheimer's still disease of mystery

Alzheimer's disease is a debilitating condition affecting primarily the memory in older adults. Alzheimer's progresses slowly, often taking years to become readily apparent.

Although the absolute diagnosis of Alzheimer's is not confirmed until a person dies, there is a process of eliminating other causes of memory impairment. Once these causes have been eliminated, the probable diagnosis is Alzheimer's.

In its early stages, memory impairment may not affect daily living and may not be apparent to others. Those with Alzheimer's often recognize early memory problems and find ways to compensate for forgetting, such as keeping a calendar and notes. In the late stages of the disease, a person may not recognize relatives, know their names or recognize familiar surroundings.

There have been no successful treatments for Alzheimer's disease. In fact, the true cause is not known, although scientists have suggested many possibilities. Only in the last five years has research begun to produce products for the public market.

Tacrine, also known as Cognex, has been used to treat Alzheimer's disease. While it does not cure the disease, in some patients it slows its progress.

Donepezil hydrochloride, also known as Aricept, was approved recently for marketing. This drug, which appears to have fewer side effects than tacrine, can be given once a day. It also does not cure the disease, but some patients show improvements. Although it has few side effects, patients with some heart diseases should use it with caution.

It is anticipated future research will lead to drugs which truly can slow the onset of memory problems, to allow people with Alzheimer's disease to maintain independent living for a longer time.

Registered pharmacist Rebecca Coley is publicity chair for the Missouri Society of Health-System Pharmacists.

Prolific zucchini picked for every meal, snack

Soon zucchini will be everywhere. This super-productive vegetable is rich in vitamin A. One-half cup of cooked zucchini contains only nine calories. Not only is it plentiful and delicious, it is easy to prepare.

As summer squash, it has a thin skin. Unlike its thick-skinned winter cousins, zucchini is cooked without removing the colorful outer portion.

Because of the high moisture content of zucchini, cooking time is minimal, about 4 minutes per pound on a high setting in a microwave oven.

Be aware, however, that the combination of thin skin and high moisture content means a zucchini does not keep fresh for an extended period of time. Kept too long in a refrigerator, it becomes mushy, so it should be used soon after purchase or harvest.

That is not difficult, because there are many ways to prepare this wonderful squash.

For a colorful and uncomplicated summer medley, slice 1 medium zucchini into a microwave-safe bowl. Combine it with 1/2 cup sliced mushrooms and 1/4 cup sliced onion. Add 2 tablespoons water. Cook covered, on high power 4 minutes. Sprinkle with parmesan cheese. Add 1 tomato, chopped, at this point for wonderful consistency in this colorful combination.

Zucchini's versatility extends beyond combinations with vegetables. It blends well with meats and can be used as a main dish. Its banana-like shape lends itself to stuffing. To prepare it, cut it lengthwise and scoop out the pulp, leaving about 1/4-inch shell inside the skin. Combine the pulp with favorite vegetables or cooked sausage and return the mixture to the shells. Cover the stuffed shells with waxed paper. Cook about 4 minutes per pound on high power.

Don't skip zucchini as an appetizer either. These "bites" use zucchini as a base for a creamy seafood mixture. The appetizer is served chilled, so it is a handy make-ahead recipe.

Betty Serati specializes in microwave cooking.

CINNAMON RHUBARB MUFFINS

1/2 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1/4 cup (1/2 stick) butter, softened
1 cup sour cream, any variety
2 eggs
1 1/2 cups flour
3/4 tsp. baking soda
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 1/2 cups sliced (1/4 inch) fresh or frozen rhubarb
1 tbsp. granulated sugar

Preheat oven to 375°. Grease muffin cups or line with paper liners. In large bowl, combine brown sugar and butter. Using medium speed of electric mixer, beat 1 to 2 minutes until mixture is creamy. Add sour cream and eggs. Beat 1 to 2 minutes longer until well mixed.

In medium bowl, stir together flour, baking soda and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. By hand, stir flour mixture into sour cream mixture just until moistened. Gently stir in rhubarb.

Spoon batter into prepared muffin cups.

In small bowl, stir together granulated sugar and 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon. Sprinkle about 1/4 teaspoon mixture on top of each muffin. Bake in preheated oven 25 to 30 minutes until lightly browned. Let stand 5 minutes. Remove from pans.

Yields 12 muffins; 170 calories, 5 g protein, 25 g carbohydrate, 6 g fat, 55 mg cholesterol and 40 mg sodium each.

GRILLED CORNISH HENS

4 Cornish hens (1 lb. 6 oz. each), giblets removed, split lengthwise
1 cup orange juice
1/2 cup oil
2 tbsp. soy sauce
3 cloves garlic, minced
1 tbsp. chopped ginger root or 1 tsp. dried ginger
Freshly ground pepper

Wash hens and pat dry. Combine orange juice, oil, soy sauce, garlic and ginger. Place hens in large resealable plastic food storage bag. Reserving 1/2 cup juice mixture, add remainder to bag, covering hens. Seal. Refrigerate at least 8 hours or overnight.

Lightly grease grill and preheat, or bring coals to medium heat. Place hens skin-side up on grill 5 to 6 inches from heat. Season with pepper.

Grill 25 to 35 minutes, turning and basting occasionally with reserved fresh juice mixture. Test for doneness by piercing leg area with fork; juice should run clear. Makes 6 to 8 servings.

FEELING FIT

BY MARK LYMBERPOULOS

Of course, real exercise workouts are more fun, but 30 minutes of any moderate activity—from cleaning house to raking leaves to taking a walk—can help lower risks of disease, the American College of Sports Medicine and the Centers for Disease Control declared.

Cutting down on fats? It's not hard to substitute skim or one-percent milk for whole milk, ice milk for ice cream, egg whites for whole eggs in most recipes. Choose water-packed tuna and chicken without skin.

New front-mounted brake for in-line skates makes stopping easier—and safer. A high-impact nylon composite bracket attaches to the inside of the wheel chassis and holds a (replaceable) polyurethane brake pad. It's said to permit a more natural position than a rear brake.

A little chilly in the gym? That's as it should be. If the room is comfortable enough to sit around, it's too warm to work out in. The room should be 68 to 72 degrees, and adequately ventilated to dissipate the body heat of exercisers.

The right temperature, the right surface—you'll be comfortable working out at

New engine makes BMW Z3 fast, fun

By Tom Strongman

BMW's Z3 was the first of the new German roadsters to hit the market, but its 1.9-liter, four-cylinder engine didn't quite have the zip for which BMW is known.

Now comes the Z3 2.8 BMW created an all-aluminum version of its worthy 2.8-liter, 189-horse six-cylinder from the 320i/520i and plopped it under the Z's long, curvaceous hood. The new engine weighs only 40 pounds more than the four-cylinder, and total vehicle weight is up by only 143 pounds. Performance is scintillating, and it hits 60 mph in 6.3 seconds.

The Z3 now is more like the car it was intended to be: quick, fun and able to fend off any sand kicked in its face by the Porsche Boxster or Mercedes-Benz SLK. In a stoplight contest, this Miata-sized two-seater is likely to come out on top, although the Porsche is close.

The 1.9-liter four-cylinder starts at $29,425, while the six begins at $35,900. Is the extra power worth the money? That depends on who you are. If you like acceleration that makes your skin tingle with excitement and cornering like a go-kart, pick the six. If, on the other hand, crisp handling, high style and good gas mileage are more important than full-throttle blasts through the gears, the four will suit you quite well. It's a matter of which motivates you more, your wallet or your heart.

For those who feel that too much is never enough, an even hotter M roadster will be available next spring with the 240-horsepower engine of the M3. This road rocket has the potential to be a Corvette killer.

All Z3s have nearly identical styling, and even die-hard Bimmerphiles will have a hard time telling one from the other unless they are parked side by side. The 2.8 gets a deeper front spoiler, wider fender flares, round-spoke alloy wheels and a leather interior accented with wood trim. The rear track is more than 2 inches wider, and front disc brakes are vented to reduce fade under hard use. BMW's traction-control system not only keeps it firmly hooked up in bad weather, it works on dry pavement if you get too exuberant.

Either model is guaranteed to draw crowds wherever you go. People react to its shape with curiosity and appreciation largely, I think, because the long front end recalls roadsters of the 1930s. If there is any negative to its shape it is that the stubby back end looks disproportionately small.

With a 96.3-inch wheelbase, 16-inch wheels and firm suspension it is attracted to turns like a shop-a-holic is to a sidewalk sale. It just can't seem to get enough. You will find yourself taking crooked streets to work just so you can enjoy its responsiveness.

Over bumpy roads you can feel the body flexing, but it is not excessive.

The cockpit is essentially the same as the 1.9, but the leather seats and wood trim give it a decidedly upscale feel. While some may not like the dotted texture of the leather upholstery. I thought it was attractive. Our test car was equipped with the extended leather package that features leather on the steering wheel, door pulls, upper dash and center console.

People react to the shape of the BMW Z3 with curiosity and appreciation.

As you would expect of a two-seater with an overall length of 156 inches (about 13 feet), there's not a lot of room inside, and the trunk is fairly tiny.

The dash uses gauges and instruments similar to those of the 3-series. The center console has a tiny storage bin and two cup holders that look like afterthoughts.

The manual top drops behind the seats after releasing two latches, and one person can easily put it back in place. The Porsche has a power top with a glass window, and the Mercedes-Benz SLK has a retractable steel hardtop. The Z3's top is not padded, which contributes to road noise on the highway.

All Z3s for Europe and America are built at BMW's U.S. plant in Spartanburg, S.C., which is running at capacity to meet demand. With an even hotter version on the horizon, the factory is likely to be running at full tilt for quite some time. Competition in the $36,000 to $42,000 roadster/sports car segment continues to grow. The Z3 has to contend not only with the Boxster and SLK, but the Plymouth Prowler and Chevrolet Corvette. A Corvette convertible looms just over the horizon.

Who says sports cars are dead?

The base price of our test car was $35,900. Its only option was extended leather upholstery, and that brought the sticker to $37,670.

The basic warranty is for four years or 50,000 miles. Scheduled maintenance for three years or 36,000 miles is free.

Point: The six-cylinder Z3 is fast and fun to drive. The manual gear box is delightfully precise, and the agile handling makes you remember why sports cars are such fun.

Counterpoint: The cabin is small, and even with the top up there is a fair amount of wind noise at highway speeds.

POINTS & PLUGS

By Rick Stoff

California motorists now have two mainstream electric cars from which to choose. Honda has released its EVPlus car there at a monthly rate of $499. Like General Motors, Honda is not selling the car outright. Honda hopes to have 300 of the cars on the road in three years.

If you're not already on the list, you'd better be or know someone who is. Or be very important and/or have a lot of cash in your pocket. The Plymouth Prowler hot rod goes into production this month, but only 2,000 are scheduled to be built this year. That's not even enough to supply all 2,900 of the Plymouth dealers in the country, let alone all the consumers who might like one of the cars.

The car will cost $39,000 and be available in any color you'd like, as long as you'd like a very loud purple. If you miss out this year, you might be lucky. Plymouth plans to build 5,000 Prowlers next year, meaning the cars ought to be selling for the actual sticker price by this time next year.

Remember the guy who got a $2 million jury award because his new BMW had been repainted to cover acid rain damage but he wasn't told about it? The award made to the Alabama doctor has been reduced to $50,000 by the state Supreme Court, who found $2 mil a bit much of a penalty for a paint touch-up.

The St. Louis-built Voyager minivan is getting another passport. Chrysler has announced it is beginning to export the minivans, Neon car and Jeep Grand Cherokee to the growing market of Egypt. The company expects Egypt to be buying 100,000 cars a month within two or three years.

They weigh as much as a Model A but have engines that produce six or eight times the horsepower of a large modern street engine. That's why they cost so much.

The CART PPG Cup World Series cars that raced recently at Gateway International Raceway weigh just 1,550 pounds but cost $400,000 to $500,000 without an engine.

The engines cost as much as $2 million a year—and that's to lease, so at the end of the season you can't even drive your car to church any more.

Those engines can displace up to 2.65 liters and produce an estimated 800 horsepower.

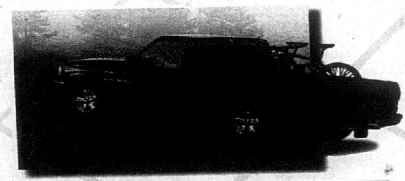

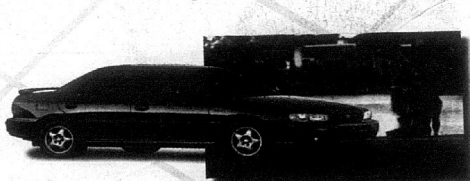

And you can't even gas them up at most filling stations. The race-car engines burn methanol alcohol instead of gasoline and use plenty of it. The tiny cars contain a 35-gallon fuel tank and go through more than 250 gallons in a 500-mile race.

Everybody's heard of them but few actually have them. The Ferrari may be one of the most well-known car names in the world, but annual production totals only 3,000 or so. Sales in the U.S. amount to just 750 annually. Nobody drives them, either. Ferrari says its typical car is driven 2,500 miles per year.

Shrine Circus coming to town

The Moolah Shrine Circus will give eight performances Thursday through Sunday, featuring the Royal Hanneford Circus.

Long considered the "Royal Family of the Circus," the Hanneford family holds an unbroken span of circus history dating from the 1890s. A well-known producer of Shrine circuses and other circus extravaganzas, Tommy Hanneford has created the traditional family circus of performers who will amaze audiences with astonishing feats and extravagant production numbers.

This year's Moolah Shrine Circus highlights include Lance Ramos and his Ferocious Felines, the tumbling and twisting of The Moroccan Connection, the breath-taking maneuvers of the Centrons' Motorcycle, the equestrian elegance of Miss Sylvia Zerbin and Swapole Sensations, the Nervous Nocks and Winn Troupe.

The circus will kick off with the traditional Moolah Shrine Circus parade tonight through downtown St. Louis.

Performances are 7:30 p.m.

Thursday; 10:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Friday; 11:30 a.m., 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday; and 1 and 5 p.m. Sunday.

Tickets also are available at all Capital Tickets locations, or by calling Dialtix at (314) 969-1800.

Reserved tickets are $18, $14, $12 and $10. General admission mezzanine seats are being sold for $8 on a first-come, first-served basis.

For general information, call (314) 622-KIEL.
